Market Review

- Global equities posted mixed results in Q2 as inflation continued to cool across developed countries and concerns started to emerge over slowing economic growth.
- While central banks in Europe and Canada began monetary easing, the Federal Reserve has kept rates steady due to persistent inflation above the 2 percent target and a strong labor market.
- International small- and mid-cap equities, as measured by the MSCI AC World ex USA SMID Index, produced positive returns across most sectors (in local returns).

Current and future portfolio holdings are subject to risk. The value of portfolio securities selected by the investment team may rise or fall in response to company, market, economic, political, regulatory or other news, at times greater than the market or benchmark index. A portfolio's environmental, social and governance ("ESG") considerations may limit the investment opportunities available and, as a result, the portfolio may forgo certain investment opportunities and underperform portfolios that do not consider ESG factors. International investments involve special risks, including currency fluctuation, lower liquidity, different accounting methods and economic and political systems, and higher transaction costs. These risks typically are greater in emerging and less developed markets, including frontier markets. Securities of small- and medium-sized companies tend to have a shorter history of operations, be more volatile and less liquid and may have underperformed securities of large companies during some periods. Growth securities may underperform other asset types during a given period.

Performance attribution quantifies the relationship between a portfolio's relative returns and the active management decisions differentiating the portfolio from the benchmark. Attribution excludes account fees and expenses and does not represent an investor's total return. Allocation Effect examines the relative return attributable to group (e.g. asset class, sector, region) allocations. Selection Effect examines the relative return attributable to security selections. For international portfolios, Currency Effect examines the relative return attributable to currency exposures. Contribution to Return is calculated by multiplying a security's portfolio weight by its in-portfolio return for the period. Upon request, Artisan will provide: (i) the calculation methodology and/or (ii) a list of each security's contribution to overall performance during the period. Securities of the same issuer are aggregated to determine the weight in the portfolio; aggregation of corporate affiliates is subject to the determination of Artisan Partners. For more information, please call 800.454.1770. Attribution and Contribution to Return are not exact, but should be considered an approximation of the relative contribution of the factors considered.
