Commentary

Emerging markets (EM) equities climbed higher in September, adding to a positive year for the asset class. The ability to perform in an eventful market environment, characterized by government changes, geopolitical tensions and shifts in monetary policy, demonstrated EM resilience. Furthermore, investors have reacted favorably to the announcement of China's economic stimulus plan, spurring Chinese equity market gains. China was the benchmark's largest contributor in Q3, while Korea was the benchmark's main detractor. Our portfolio slightly lagged the MSCI Emerging Markets Index.

Our primary relative detractors for the quarter included Samsung Electronics and Cosmax. Samsung is one of the world's leading producers of memory semiconductors, mobile handsets and other digital convergence products. The stock suffered due to investor uncertainty toward the semiconductor industry and anticipated weakness in memory chip demand.

Cosmax is a Korean cosmetics manufacturer and global leader in the original development and design manufacturing space. It offers design, material sourcing, manufacturing, product management and branding services to independent cosmetic and skincare brands. Shares of Cosmax declined this quarter due to China's economic slowdown, which led to weaker domestic demand for the company's Chinese subsidiary. However, we believe China's recent measures to reactivate the economy will lift investor sentiment and increase consumer demand.

Among our top relative contributors for the quarter were MercadoLibre and E Ink. MercadoLibre, the leading e-commerce platform in Latin America, continued to outperform. The company's expansion of fintech services, including its Mercado Pago and Mercado Crédito platforms, demonstrates the success of its diversified growth strategy. With a preestablished and dedicated client base, MercadoLibre is, in our opinion, positioned for future growth as its fintech and e-commerce services become further integrated.

E Ink is a Taiwan-based producer of e-paper technology used in e-readers, such as Amazon's Kindle, and electronic shelf label (ESL) systems used to display pricing on retail shelves. The company's stock gained momentum this quarter, supported by the implementation of its ESL systems in retail stores. Additionally, the company's shift in focus to digital signage has increased the applications of its e-paper technology. We have long believed in E lnk's role in the widespread adoption of electronic paper and are confident in its future growth prospects.

Volatility is to be expected in emerging markets, and it can be extreme at times—a natural part of what we believe can be a superior growth opportunity over longer periods. We maintain our disciplined process and closely monitor positions—including engagement with management teams—to adjust valuations and position size as we believe appropriate.

Carefully consider the Fund's investment objective, risks and charges and expenses. This and other important information is contained in the Fund's prospectus and summary prospectus, which can be obtained by calling 800.344.1770. Read carefully before investing.

Current and future portfolio holdings are subject to risk. The value of portfolio securities selected by the investment team may rise or fall in response to company, market, economic, political, regulatory or other news, at times greater than the market or benchmark index. A portfolio's environmental, social and governance ("ESG") considerations may limit the investment opportunities available and, as a result, the portfolio may forgo certain investment opportunities and underperform portfolios that do not consider ESG factors. Investments in which the team has determined to have sustainable growth characteristics may underperform other securities and may not achieve their sustainable growth potential. Non-diversified portfolios may invest larger portions of assets in securities of a smaller number of issuers and performance of a single issuer may have a greater impact to the portfolio's returns. International investments involve special risks, including currency fluctuation, lower liquidity, different accounting methods and economic and political systems, and higher transaction costs. These risks typically are greater in emerging and less developed markets, including frontier markets. Such risks include new and rapidly changing political and economic structures, which may cause instability; underdeveloped securities markets; and higher likelihood of high levels of inflation, deflation or currency devaluations. Securities of small- and medium-sized companies tend to have a shorter history of operations, be more volatile and less liquid and may have underperformed securities of large companies during some periods.

MSCI Emerging Markets Index measures the performance of emerging markets. The index(es) are unmanaged; include net reinvested dividends; do not reflect fees or expenses; and are not available for direct investment.
